PROBERS FAIL TO AGREE ON BLAST CAUSE

Explosive Experts To Inquire Further Before Giving Final Opinion

BELIEVED DUE TO GAS

Others Maintain That This Is Improbable Bomb Plot Idea Assailed

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O April 16—Two groups of investigators burrowed today into a confusing assortment of theories advanced as to the possible cause of the terrific blast which wrecked the interior of Ohio's new $6 000 000 state office building killed eight workmen and injured scores of others Thursday

One group comprised explosive experts intent only upon the angle discredited by them after a preliminary investigation last night that bombers plotted the destruction of the white marble edifice the scene of numerous labor disputes

The other directed by Joseph Hostetler of Cleveland reviewed the findings of the explosive experts and studied as well the contention of proponents of theories that sewer gas or natural gas was the cause

First Views Almost United

Officials here tacitly had settled on the assumption that high explosives—such as dynamite TNT or nitroglycerine—was planted as the root of the tragic blast which roaring out of a sub-cellar swept upward with such violence that men were blown from windows heavy ornamental doors were snapped from their hinges and tossed in twisted masses outside the building and mighty steel girders 11 floors above the street were wrenched from their moorings

But after receiving the preliminary statement of explosive experts local investigators returned doubtfully to a consideration of the two theories on gas

The explosive experts qualified their first statement by adding they would carry their investigation further before offering a final opinion

Arguments Confusing

With investigators ...mfortably up against a blank wall in their ... forts to solve the mystery theorists beset authorities with arguments which if accepted on their face

By The Associated Press

HONOLULU April 16—Clarence Darrow defense attorney, announced in court today that Lieutenant Thomas H Massie one of the four accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai killed the young native and that Massie would plead insanity

HONOLULU April 16—An immediate fulfillment of a defense promise to name one of the four accused persons in the Joseph Kahahawai lynching case here was expected today

Exclusion of testimony relating to the attack on Mrs Thalia Massie wife of one and daughter of another of the defendants with which Kahahawai and four others was charged also was sought by the prosecution

Before Lieut Thomas H Massie resumes the witness stand to continue his story thus far principally relating to the attack on his wife attorneys prepared to argue the admissability of testimony along that line

Clarence Darrow chief defense counsel whose illness halted the trial yesterday announced last night he was much better and would be ready in court today

Prosecutor John C Kelley announced he would seek to have Darrow tell the court specifically before going further with defense testimony just which one of the defendants would admit firing the fatal shot and plead insanity

Kelley said he wanted the defense to say whether Massie would admit the killing so that it could be determined at once whether the navy officer now is sane or in sane "An insane man can not testify Kelley said

HOOVER SEEKS TO REORGANIZE GOVERNMENT

Economy Committee Hears Plans of President To Make Drastic Changes

WOULD ACT IMMEDIATELY

Chief Executive Desires Numerous Consolidations of Federal Departments

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON April 16 The house economy committee was told today by J C Roop budget director that President Hoover desired authority to make a thorough reorganization of the federal government

In explaining to the group behind closed doors the 4 point 16 far-reaching omnibus retrenchment bill Roop said Mr Hoover desired congress to establish a policy of consolidation that would permit him to carry it out through executive orders

The consolidations can be carried out at once under the President's program affect public works public health personnel administration merchant marine conservation and educational activities and the Mexican boundary and water commissions

The consolidation effected by the chief executive would be subject to a 60 day veto by congress Should congress not take action on the consolidations effected within 60 days they would stand

Roop read a lengthy statement explaining the 71 page administration bill He said the President preferred his five day week and staggered furlough plan of employment over the McDuffie direct pay cut proposal drafted by the committee

Savings under President Hoover's plan for reducing government expenditures were estimated in the statement at from a possible $225 000 000 to $250 000 000 annually

Cuts in departmental appropriations now under discussion the White House memorandum said would result in the discharge of as many as 10 000 government employes but that with a 5-day week these could be retained and between 25 000 and 35 000 part time substitutes employed

CITY FAILS TO PAY SALARIES

Remainder Due on December Tax Collection To Bring Temporary Relief

MORE DIFFICULTY SEEN

Expect Another Suspension of ... ments to Employes in June

City officials and employes today faced a payless payday as the result of a financial problem which left the city without funds to meet salaries or other expenses

Relief from the present condition is seen by officials early in May when the remainder of the city's share of the December tax collection will be received The relief however will probably be only temporary Officials expect later in the year again to be forced to suspend salary payments

Officials see no solution to the problem as the city has reached its limit of bonded indebtedness and will be unable to resort to bond sales to raise funds

In May the city will receive approximately $83 000 as the balance of its share of the December tax collection However the greater portion of this $85 000 will be ... which fell due in March With the remaining $18 000 and revenue earned by city departments having an income such as the hospital the municipal court and the garbage collection department officials expect to be able to resume salary payments until about the middle of June

In June another suspension of salary payments will probably be necessary until the city can make an advance drawn on tax payments in July

Officials feel ... the difficulty to a relation in the valuation of property from $50 000 000 to $30 000 000 by the last reappraisement thus reducing the amount of taxes to be collected and to the fact that many property owners have failed to meet their tax payments

SIX PERISH IN BRONX FLAMES

Mother, Father and Four Children Die as Blaze Sweeps Tenement

SECOND TRAGEDY IN WEEK

Three Others of Family Escape Death, Basement Combustion Blamed

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK April 16—Fire sweeping through a Bronx tenement in which many families slept killed a father and mother and four children today

It was the second tragic tenement fire of the week A mother and her five children died when fire trapped them in their fifth floor quarters Wednesday evening

Those burned to death today included Mr and Mrs Samuel Dombell each 45 years old and their twin sons Jacob and Joseph

They were fighting to escape when death overtook them Their bodies were found in a third floor hallway Three other children in the family got out without injury

Edith Weinstein 7 and Phillip Weinstein 10 were trapped in their apartment after their father Benjamin Weinstein had led his wife and two other children to safety through smoke choked halls Rescued by firemen and patrolmen who suffered severe burns in dragging them out the little girl and boy succumbed several hours later in a hospital

A combustion of old paint ... stale stored in the basement was suspected as the source of the fire

PATROL FORCE RAISED TO 560

Four Additional Companies Sent To Preserve Order in Eastern Ohio

QUIET PREVAILS TODAY

But Situation Is Marked by Uneasiness. Federal Action Asked

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O April 16—Four additional companies of the 145th infantry Ohio National guard today were ordered to the eastern Ohio coal fields to maintain order The new companies ordered into the field are companies A and B of Cleveland company C of Canton and company H of Youngstown With the additional companies on the ground the National guard force will total 560 men and officers

General Henderson said the additional troops were ordered to the field not because they anticipated further violence but because there were not sufficient men on duty to patrol the field without using force

Federal Inquiry Is Requested

By The Associated Press

CADIZ O April 16—The federal government today was asked to investigate conditions in the Eastern Ohio coal fields where recurrent disorders led to the ordering of the Ohio national guard into the field to maintain order

The investigation was requested by H H Sniketl president of the Tara Mining company of Hopedale operators of a strip mine

In his telegram which he sent to United States Senators David I Reed and James J Davis of Pennsylvania and Representative Kelly of Pittsburgh Sniketl said he feared for the safety of the citizens of the field and told the senators he was sure conditions in the field would warrant an inquiry.

Demonstration Forecast

There was considerable uneasiness among officers in the field as reports were received that a huge demonstration was planned at the burial of Walter Kimbel killed several days ago when a large crowd said to have been strike sympathizers attacked National guard and sheriff's officers enroute to the Somers mine of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company Kimbel was killed by a shot fired from one of the automobiles conveying the officers to the mine

Another death attributed to the mine disorders was discovered late yesterday when the body of Carl Naygreen, 40 was found in a ditch after a crowd of 200 men earlier attacked four non striking miners enroute to the Harmon creek mine near this city

Thinks Death Due to Fright

Officials believed Naygreen died of fright for no marks were found on his body The four men attacked however were badly beaten Later authorities arrested three suspects

About 500 members of the Ohio National guard who remained on duty in the coal fields today under command of Adjutant General Frank D Henderson reported they had the situation under control except for infrequent sniping

Hopes for settling the coal miners' wage strike, out of which the hostilities grew are pinned at the present time upon a conference called by Secretary of Labor William H Doak

The conference will be held in Washington April 20 Secretary Doak invited delegations of miners and operators to attend and said several acceptances had been received Among those who will be represented will be the United Mine Workers organization

Phils Break Loose in Ninth To Humble Giants

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

Plenty of Sports

Marion residents who incline to sports should not lack for something to do during the coming summer months. The local sports program promises to be fuller than usual if all the projects planned are carried through.

Harley Lewis and "Spide" Markert, the powers behind the throne in wrestling, intend to promote the art of toe twisting here all summer, holding shows at the Shovel gym until hot weather gets here. Outdoor shows are planned for the hotter months. Jimmy Conarty will attempt to put boxing back on the sports map here, possibly following the same plans as Markert and Lewis.

As usual, recreation baseball will be holding the attention of a large share of the 30,000 residents here, 32 teams having signed up for play in the city leagues. The Heart of Ohio amateur baseball league has been formed for Sunday competition, the entry list including one Marion team made up mostly of ball players in their teens, who will play solely for the fun of it.

The Mar-O-Del and Country club golf courses will attract the growing horde of Marion divot diggers, tennis courts will be available in several places in the city, Sunday recreation baseball competition is being given some careful consideration by interested promoters although nothing definite has been done about it yet. If none of these are satisfactory, you can drive a stake in your back yard and pitch horse shoes—or play mumbly peg.

Allan Gould, sports editor of the Associated Press, gets the credit for the following story on the debut on Hack Wilson at Brooklyn.

"Hoiman" Is Gone

The case of the lean and lanky Babe Herman in Brooklyn has always been unique in baseball's eccentric history. Despite his faults Brooklyn esteemed him highly, suffered with him as he chased high fly balls that threatened to settle in his nasophagus, panned him unmercifully when he dropped them or fanned ingloriously in a pinch, but roared with adulation when he redeemed himself with base knocks to the far fences.

There was something in Brooklyn's Babe that had a definite and lasting appeal for the rugged, blasphemous citizenry that to a man hailed him as "Holman" in the pubis of the borough.

When he was traded to Cincinnati something went out of Brooklyn's baseball life, something as definite as that which departed with the portly, near-sighted form of beloved "Uncle Wilbert" Robinson.

Grin Breaks Ice

But apparently it has come back to Brooklyn's feverish fandom with the acquisition of Hack Wilson from the Cubs, one of Max Carey's chief maneuvers in the rebuilding of the Robins.

The clients came out some 35,000 strong, a bit sorrowful that there was no Babe to cheer and jeer, but willing to accept a substitute that was convincing.

As Hack galloped out to center field to take his post against the Braves there was a benevolent silence in the center field bleachers, broken only by an occasional sheer, an "Atta boy, Hack," the murmur of die-hards insisting that Wilson or no Wilson, I'll rather have Holman."

More to see if he could "take it" than anything else, apparently, one

HURST RAPS HOMER WITH BASES LOADED TO SNATCH VICTORY

Hack Wilson Gets First Circuit Wallop; Cleveland, Cincinnati Both Lose.

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Burt Shotton leads his flailing Phillies out of the National league wilderness this season—and he threatens to—one of the chief reasons will be the sudden development of Don Hurst into an aggressive player.

Hack Wilson

Despite great natural advantages, Hurst's value to the club has been lessened by an apparent lack of spirit, for four years he has been a trendy but uninspired first baseman.

Now he has become one of the big driving forces.

Hurst was one of the big guns in the Phillies' victory over the Giants yesterday. He pounded out a home run with the bases filled in the eighth inning to give the Phils their second straight victory over the proud New York Giants, 7-6.

Wilson Gets First

Hack Wilson's first home run of the year, coming with two on base in the seventh, broke up a pitcher's duel between Hill Clark and Tom Zachary and gave the Brooklyn Dodgers an easy 8-2 triumph.

At St. Louis, the world champion Cardinals battered Pittsburgh pitching for 15 hits, 10 for extra bases, yet failed to avert a 9-7 defeat.

Lon Warneke, rookie pitcher, scattered Cincinnati's eight hits and Chicago coasted to an easy 8-2 victory.

Pitchers dominated the American league schedule except at Philadelphia, where the New York Yankees and the Athletics put on another slugging duel that finally went to the A's 9-8. Foxx and Cochrane hit homers for the A's and Gehrig got his second of the season for the Yankees.

White Sox Wins, 4-3

Bumps Hadley held the St. Louis Browns to seven hits and fanned 10 as the Chicago White Sox won a 13-inning struggle 4-3, when Carey Selph singled with the bases filled.

Monte Weaver made his American league debut for the Washington Senators and blanked the Boston Red Sox on four hits, 2-0. Earl Whitehill, veteran right hander of the Detroit Tigers, held the Cleveland Indians to three hits but it took a ninth-inning rally to win for the Tigers, 3-2.

leather lunged rooter leaned over and bellowed at the chunky, sawed-off veteran:

"Get up off your knees, Hack. We know you ain't that short."

When Hack looked up and grinned the populace settled back half convinced that everything had been for the best after all.

You Gotta Hit

But things happened to Hack shortly thereafter. Perhaps he was trying too hard to please the most difficult fans to please anywhere on baseball's wide circuit, including St. Louis and Cincinnati.

He fanned, and there were roars of disgust such as were reserved in the past only for the whiffings of "Holman himself." He was all but skulled by a fly ball that went over his head for a double as he slithered around in the mud, trying to get his squat bulky frame in motion in two directions at once.

Hack got the full measure of Brooklyn discomfiture just as he recovered the ball and managed to get it back to the infield.

"You can't do that," bitterly insisted the leather-lunged patriot who had been so friendly in his earlier greeting.

"You ain't no Holman. You don't hit."

RACING SEASON ON AT JAMAICA TRACK

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 16—The Paumonok handicap, a $5,000 six-furlong dash, served as the feature for the opening of New York's racing season at Jamaica today.

In the field of eight colts and fillies, James Butler's crack five-year-old, Questionnaire, looked like a standout despite the fact that he was assigned the heavy impost of 130 pounds. Chief competition was looked for from Victor Emanuel's speedy filly, The Beaset. J. H. Louchheim's Economic, a good two-year-old last year, and Chestnut Oak were the three entries most highly touted.

N. B. A. THREATENS TO BAN MAXIE, JACK IF CHARGES ARE PROVEN

Heavyweight Fighters Both in "Hot Water," but for Different Causes.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 16—Jack Dempsey and Max Schmeling, past and present masters of the heavyweight boxing world, were threatened with the banishment from National Boxing association territory today.

Dempsey's troubles involved an old case whereas the German champion's concerned an alleged "fringer" in a match at Toronto, Canada.

General John V. Clinnin, chairman of the N. B. A. started an investigation of Schmeling yesterday after receiving a complaint from George Panka, Pittsburgh heavyweight, that he was named as the man the champion defeated in an exhibition match at Toronto, April 1, while he was spending a peaceful evening in Pittsburgh. General Clinnin immediately asked officials of the Canadian boxing federation for full details of the match.

The Dempsey case extends way back to November, 1930, when he engaged in a boxing show at Columbus, Miss., programmed as the "Dempsey day celebration." Incurred bills of $2,800 were left unpaid and the creditors complained to the Mississippi State Boxing commission, a member of the N. B. A. Dempsey and his manager, Leonard Sacks, insisted Dempsey went to Columbus only in the role of a referee and had no promotional interest and informed the commission and the N. B. A. to that effect this winter, at a conference in Chicago.

TOO MUCH WEIGHT

Loss Five Pounds Before You Play Again, McGraw Tells Hogan.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 16 — Frank (Shanty) Hogan, burly catcher of the New York Giants, is in John McGraw's bad graces again.

McGraw won't permit Hogan to catch until he gets down to 228 pounds. He scales 233 now and thus is in the position of being virtually suspended although he must report to the ball park every morning and run around like a marathon athlete.

COLUMBUS GOLFER WINS LINKS MEET

By The Associated Press

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 16—Everett G. Livesay, a veteran left-hander from Columbus, O., is the new Mason and Dixon amateur golf champion.

Livesay played steady golf yesterday to whip young John E. Hines of Garden City, N. Y., 6 and 4, in the 36-hole final round.

The Columbus player gained a two hole lead at the end of the first 18 holes and went five up at the 29th as Hines failed to control his irons and putter. The Garden City youngster staved off the inevitable by winning the 30th but three putted the 31st and hooked his iron shot into a bad lie at the 32nd to lose both holes and the match.

Will Play Monday.

What is probably the first officially scheduled game of the softball season here will be played Monday at 6 p. m. at the Steam Shovel athletic field. The Erie Traffic club of the Commercial league and Lee Street Presbyterians will clash.

Rowing Season Opens.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 16—The eastern rowing season opens today with a varsity brush between Princeton and Navy and a duel between Columbia's freshman eight and Kent school at Kent, Conn.

EARLY DATE FOR KENTUCKY DERBY FAVORS TOP FLIGHT, HISTORY SHOWS

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—There was loud outcry this year when it was announced the Kentucky derby would be run on May 7, one or two weeks earlier than usual. Some owners claimed their eligibles would be deprived of just that much time to train.

But if last year's queen of the juveniles, C. V. Whitney's Top Flight, is "another Regret," as many have dubbed her, she need have no qualms about the early derby date. Regret, the only filly to capture derby honors in 57 years of the race's history, won the 1915 derby on May 8.

Regret was owned by Harry Payne Whitney, father of C. V. Whitney, who inherited his stables. It is young Whitney's hope that his father's colors will be the first to deck three derby winners. Harry Payne Whitney won the 1927 derby with Whiskery, in addition to the 1915 race with Regret.

Back when Regret won the derby weights were assigned on the basis of past records as well as for sex. Now derby weights are fixed at 126 pounds for colts and geldings, with fillies getting in for five pounds less, 121. Hence Top Flight will have a five-pound advantage over the remainder of the derby field, providing no other filly starts.

Weight Advantage Same

This five-pound advantage is identical with the edge Regret had over the horse which ran second the year she won. Regret packed 112 pounds, and the second horse, Pebbles, carried 117. Sharpshooter, which ran third bore 114, conceding only two pounds to Regret.

TOP FLIGHT

An account of the 1915 derby on file at Churchill Downs reads: "The start was good and slow. Regret quickly took the lead, held it around the back stretch, and drew away at the finish." This is the way Top Flight won most of her seven races last season, finishing her two-year-old career unbeaten.

It was by no means a mediocre field that Regret beat. Royal II, which was among the also rans, later won the Latonia Derby. Top Flight also will have an excellent field with which to compete. Tick On and Burning Blaze, among last year's leading juvenile, are listed as almost certain starters.

Regret Also Favorite

Regret was the favorite in 1915, paying $7.30 to win, $4 to place and $3.60 to show in the $2 mutuels. These are the approximate prices predicted on Top Flight if she wins this year—a favorite but not odds-on, as was Twenty Grand last year.

Regret ran the mile and a quarter derby distance in 2:05 2-5, about average for the derby route. The track was resurfaced last year before Twenty Grand raced to his 2:01 4-5 record. Prior to that the record was 2:03 2-5, set by Old Rosebud in 1914.

The principal argument against Top Flight's chances this year are that fillies cannot hold their own in distance races with colts. Whether Top Flight can win races at more than a mile is yet to be determined, but it might be pointed out that the American record for a mile and a half, 2:28 3-5, was set by Handy Mandy, a filly, at Latonia in 1927.

Open Dates Named.

SPRINGFIELD, O., April 16—Definite fixing of Oct. 6 and 7 as dates for the Ohio Open golf tournament at the Springfield Country club was announced by Steve Zappe, club professional, and secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Professional Golfers association.

Lee Street Nine Anxious To Regain High Position

Note: This is the sixth of a series of stories concerning prospects of the various city recreation baseball teams for the 1932 season.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

In 1930 the Lee Street Presbyterian Sunday school team grabbed the championship of the No. 2 church circuit and was the toast of the city's baseball fans for the dashing display of baseball which the club exhibited in the Little World's series. Everyone predicted great things for the team when it stepped up a notch into the No. 1 Sunday school loop last season but those great things didn't materialize. No sooner had the team collided with No. 1 league opposition than things began to happen and the Lee Street boys found themselves battling to stay out of last place. When the season was completed they were in sixth, only a game and a half out of last place.

Not Downhearted

Firmly convinced last season's mediocre showing was not caused by lack of baseball ability the Lee Street boys are out this season to prove they have a perfect right to play in the No. 1 league and that they are capable of climbing into the first division. Needless to say, should the club play with the same dash and spirit characteristic in 1930, it is certain to cause some bad evenings for some of the title contenders. The team doesn't look like a pennant winner but it is certainly strong enough to put up a good game against any team in the league.

Wade and Kerr Konkle are putting on a spirited battle for the backstopping job for the West side nine. Kerr is the better hitter of the two but the receiving of the pair is about on a par. Which will get the assignment is uncertain at this time.

Have Three Pitchers

The pitching burden will be divided among Bennie Crabtree, Harold Richards and Chuck Burke, the first two right handers and the latter a southpaw. Crabtree and Richards appear the best prospects. When not pitching Richards and Crabtree will be chasing fly balls in the outfield. George Pimm will revort at first base with Mike Binhani looming as the probable selection at second although he is getting plenty of opposition from George Barr. Either Johnny Marshall or Barr will be at third. Marshall will be there if he is not retained by the Toledo Mud Hens of the American Association where he is now receiving a trial. Marshall has been the spark plug of the team for two years and is one of the best third baseman in the city. He is also a terrific hitter. Jimmy Kerr will do the shortstopping.

The outfield will be composed of J. Richard, J. Anspaugh and either Crabtree or Richards.

The Lee Street club does not figure to be a particularly strong contender for the championship and the team members are not relieved harboring any illusions on this point. However, they have hopes of causing a lot of trouble before the season is over and what is more, they will probably do just that.

OHIO WESLEYAN TO BACK RELAY MEET

DELAWARE, O., April 16—Entries have begun to arrive for the first annual Ohio Wesleyan high school relays to be held on Selby field at Ohio Wesleyan university here on Saturday, April 30.

Three men must compete for a school in each field event, and four must take part in the track events, making every event a relay. The best total time, distance or height made by the teams will determine the winner.

HEFTY CLOUTS RING FROM BLUDGEONS OF MINOR LOOP BATTERS

Pitchers Get First Class Shellacking in Association; Columbus Drops Second.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 16—American Association batsmen already have declared an open season on pitchers.

It isn't exactly unusual to see a lot of pitchers in action during the early days of a baseball campaign but so far the wielders of the big stick have forced a steady parade of hurling talent from the mound to the showers.

As all eight clubs swung into action again yesterday, the bombardment was so fierce that 12 pitchers were called for duty.

Louisville continued its scorching pace by dropping St. Paul 6 to 5 for four straight victories. The Colonels drove two flingers to the showers.

Milwaukee also carried on in defeating Toledo for the second straight time in a heavy hitting duel 11 to 5. Jackie Tavener led the Brewers with four hits, good for a collection of six runs.

A five-run assault in the fifth inning carried Kansas City to its second straight triumph over Columbus, 7 to 4. Lou Fette was nicked for 13 hits but had enough timely assistance from his mates to offset the damage.

Heving was the hero of the day as Indianapolis beat out Minneapolis, 5 to 4, to win the series three games to one. He was sent in to relieve Bernhart with the bases loaded in the fourth, pulled his mates out without any damage and pitched brilliantly the rest of the way.

Buckeyes Take Meet.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 16—Taking 15 firsts out of 16 events, Ohio State university defeated Ohio Wesleyan, 119 to 21, in a dual outdoor track meet here yesterday. Two Olympic records were equalled, one by Jack Keller who raced over the high hurdles in the 110 metre event in 14.8 seconds and the other by Jesse Fazekas, who won the 100 meter dash in 10.6 seconds.

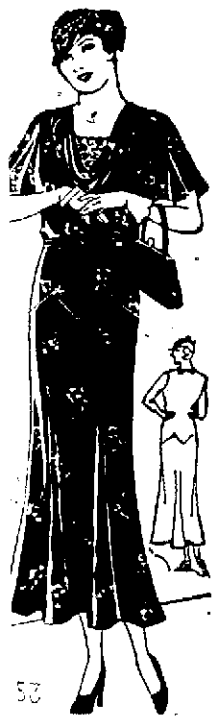
Chic Star Patterns

—Practical and Simple—

Smart for the Matron.



belt breaks the long front line, and the pointed hip seaming reduces hip width. There are long sleeves with the pattern in case you prefer them. The sketch shows the model in black and white flat crepe.

Pattern 2153 is obtainable only in sizes, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch fabric, ¼ yard of 7-inch lace.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted.

Send for our current fashion catalog. This beautiful, colorful book offers 32 pages of chic, authentic Anne Adams styles for adults and children. The newest frocks for afternoon, evening and sports wear, exquisite lingerie, attractive house dresses and adorable kiddie models are featured —all personally chosen by Anne Adams and all fashionable, practical, easy and inexpensive to make. Price of catalog, 15 cents. Catalog and pattern together, 25 cents. Address all mail and orders to Marion Star, Pattern Department, 243 West 17th Street, New York City.

3-DAY STOCK RALLY ENDS

Bonds, However, Reflect Stimulating Effect of Broader Credit.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 16—Stocks were unable to continue their recovery through a third session today, although the bond market still felt the stimulating effect of the federal reserve's credit expansion program.

Trading quarters were inclined to look upon the upturn in the stock market of the past two sessions as largely a technical rebound, and to await something in the way of favorable news before trying to press the rally further. In the meantime enough week-end profit-taking and selling came into the market to cause numerous recessions of fractions to more than 2 points from yesterday's close.

The list pushed up a little at the start, slid back, then hardened for a time as coppers had a temporary upturn, but sold off again in the final dealings, and the closing tone was heavy. Trading was quiet, however. The turnover for the short session approximated half a million shares.

Clearings for Week.

Bank clearings for the week due to the retiring of $40,000 worth of bonds by the city and the transfer of tax money, reached the highest point of the year. The total was given at the clearing house today as $274,498.28. A slight general increase in clearings, however, contributed to the larger total. The high point was reached yesterday with the total reaching $131,556.39. The low point was on Thursday when the total was $16,495.83.

To Broadcast Poems.

A group of poems written by Mrs. Elmer J. Doffee of Reed avenue will be read April 21 at 3 p. m. over Station WAIU in Columbus by J. Howard Doyle of other broadcasting station. They are "World Sentiment," "A Crisis" and "Memories." Two first number was read recently over the NBC chain from a station in Mexico. Mrs. Douce wrote the poem, which is a short story in verse, following the kidnaping of Charles Lindbergh, Jr.

To Preach Here—Rev. Paul H. Bourquin of Salem Evangelical church will preach Sunday morning on the subject, "Using Our Talents in the Master's Service."

NAVAL BOARD HEAD

For many years a member of the naval general board, Rear Admiral J. V. Chase (above) has succeeded Rear Admiral Mark Bristol as chairman of that august body. Admiral Bristol retired on reaching the statutory age limit of 64 years.

WHEAT PRICES TEND LOWER

Reported Moisture in Dry Sections Causes Downward Trend at Chicago.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 16—Responsive to reports of showers at various points in the domestic winter wheat territory southwest, grain prices tended downward early today. Most traders, however, regarded moisture relief as too slight to be of material benefit. Opening unchanged to ¼ off and subsequently showed a general decline.

With the forecast pointing to possible additional moisture in drought sections over the week-end, wheat bears had a distinct advantage. Setbacks in securities acted also at times as a weight on grain values. On the other hand, unfavorable crop advices continued to pour in from the southwest and west.

Bills contended that only copious rains soon could avert a crop disaster. It was asserted in some quarters too that the exportable surplus from this season's domestic winter crop had already been reduced to a minimum. Under such circumstances, offerings of future deliveries were relatively scarce, and price downturns lacked any great momentum, but rallies were also without much impetus. Corn and oats paralleled the changes in wheat.

Provisions went lower with hog values.

HOOVER SEES BETTER TIMES

Believes Current Pessimism Unwarranted as Signs Point to Recovery.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 16—It is President Hoover's belief that current pessimism on the American economic outlook is not warranted, and that several definite factors pointed to orderly recovery.

This view goes with the conclusion that the drive for liquidation has spent itself; that the several financial aids of the government to banking and business have conquered the major banking crisis; that alarm over pending legislation such as bonus payment and some of the more severe taxes placed in the revenue bill by the house appears much exaggerated in the light of careful study; and that one needed factor is widespread confidence, not only among the leaders of business and industry, but down through the ranks.

Tax Passage Likely

Mr. Hoover is confident congressional sentiment assures speedy passage of the billion dollar tax bill in well balanced form, and that a canvass of senate sentiment shows it is impossible for the $2,000,000,000 bonus cashing plan to become law.

He points to the economy campaign now under way, in cooperative effort between congress and the executive branch, as one of the greatest ever undertaken by any government in a single year, and places a high value on the federal reserve system's new program for an organized expansion of credit.

This summary of the President's views was given out

DEFIED BY SOLONS

Governor Harvey Parnell of Arkansas finds himself in the unenviable position of having a rebellious legislature on his hands. The governor's recent order dissolving the legislature was ignored by the Arkansas house of representatives when it met and proceeded to enact legislation for governmental economy. Members of the house also ordered the arrest of W. H. Hipps former chief clerk in connection with the removal of state records.

an old farmer, made it clear that he regretted his crime too late.

As he was dragged and pushed to the gallows he repeated "Don't hang me, don't hang me."

His last words as the black cap covered his face were "I don't want to be hung. Jesus save me." It should have said that before killing the farmer. That was the time to ask Jesus to save him.

OPERA TO CONTINUE DESPITE BIG LOSS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 16.—The Metropolitan Opera association will carry on next year with reduced prices and a shorter season.

The Met has lost more than $500,000 in the 24 week season ending tonight so there had been some doubt as to whether there would be an opera here next season. But an announcement last night told of the cut in prices and said the next season would be only 16 weeks long.

500 GET AID IN JOB DRIVE

6,000 Work Hours Distributed as Result of Campaign for Unemployed.

Nearly 500 men and women have derived direct benefit from Marion's job campaign, and approximately 5,000 work hours have been distributed among the unemployed since the drive began three weeks ago.

This report was made today by F. O. Tuttle Jr., who has maintained headquarters in the Marion chamber of commerce for the Marion "At Work" Civic committee since the drive began.

Fifteen men have been given part time work which is fairly steady. Thirteen have been placed on full time jobs. Two hundred and fifty others have been given odd jobs through the committee running hours, while approximately 175 others were given odd jobs through direct contact of those solicited in the drive and the workers, Tuttle said.

Approximately 2,500 of the 110,000 work hours pledged in the drive have been completed, and another 500 hour are in process. It is estimated that 2,000 work hours not on record at the headquarters were produced indirectly by the job drive.

Five women were given permanent employment through jobs pledged in the drive.

LEGION GROUPS TO MOBILIZE MONDAY

Veterans and Auxiliary Will Answer Annual Call Broadcast by Radio.

Legionnaires of Marion will join with their buddies over the state and nation in the annual mobilization test Monday night. Ohio will make a special occasion of the mobilization, an inspection of the programs shows.

Locally, Legion men will be given the signal both by radio and the Marion Steam Shovel Co. whistle. Nearly all Ohio radio stations will cooperate with the American Legion in giving the signal for mobilization. The time will not be announced, but probably will be between 7 and 7:30, local officials said.

The annual mobilization will be given added impetus this year by orders for all Legion auxiliary organizations and scout troops sponsored by the Legion to mobilize with the post members.

Mrs. E. E. Smith will receive sealed orders from Mrs. Edward Johns of Massillon, state president of the auxiliary, to be read when the auxiliary members have assembled at the radio and local signal. Members of Boy Scout troop No. 5, sponsored by Bird-McGinnis post, will respond to the signal.

Department Commander Herbert will speak on the American Legion program which will be broadcast from 9 to 9:30 p. m. from WAIU in Columbus and the Columbus American Legion band will play a program of Sousa's marches.

A. B. LaRue, a member of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, has arranged for the Marion mobilization signal from the Marion Steam Shovel Co. power plant.

A permanent call signal, 1-6-2, which has been approved by the Marion safety department, will be sent out from the shovel company whistle within a few seconds of the radio bugle call. One long blast, followed by an interval of a few seconds, six short blasts, an interval of seconds and two long blasts, are the signal call, taken from the post number, 162.

Marion Legionnaires and the auxiliary will mobilize at the dugout on south High street. Within a short time after the men have gathered, Commander J. W. Llewellyn will telegraph department headquarters the number of persons who reached the dugout in a specified time after the signal was given.

FLASHING LIGHT—MYSTERY

By International News Service

LELAND, Mich. — A powerful flashlight from Lake Michigan, eight miles off shore, that lasted for an hour on a recent night, has given Leland residents and coast guards here an unsolved puzzle. One explanation offered is that the light came from an amphibian forced down on the lake.

WITH EDNA B. DUTTON

MUSIC, the cinema, work, heartaches, accidents, sickness and death made up life in the little village of Lohwinkel just as they do in the rest of the world, and the happenings in the lives of Dr. Persenthelon and his wife, Frau Persenthelon were just as serious and of as much importance as though the doctor were of international fame and his wife a person of importance in the social register. Perhaps some of the events would not had taken place had Frau Elizabeth had some interest aside from sweeping up the plaster dust which rattled down from the ceilings when the train hurried on its way through the village, caring for the doctor's surgical instruments and cooking the specially prepared food for the doctor's "rabbit" Lungnas, on whom he was experimenting for lead poisoning. Their daughter, Bebbi, cared for herself very capably.

These and several other characters furnish the action in Vicki Baum's novel, "And Life Goes On," translated by Margaret Goldsmith.

D. Persenthein, a veteran of the great war is deeply interested in his work in the little village which he shares with his plans for his great idea in the medical world of the future. Money is scarce and the work is long and tedious and that is perhaps why he takes entirely for granted his wife's devotion and fails to realize that life for her too, is a hardship in the little village.

The entire village is transformed when a motor accident keeps Peter Karbon, a wealthy industrialist, his companion, a well-known cinema actress and a ring champion there for some time. Interest centers around the friendship which develops between Frau Persenthein and Karbon while the villagers are awakened to their own interests through the brother-in-law of Karbon's chauffeur, Foblanke, who arrives to take charge of affairs when the latter is killed in the accident.

It is a great occasion and all the villagers turn out to see the workers place the wreath on Foblanke's casket and the day affords an opportunity to discuss their own well-being. The little actress, Leora Lania has no difficulty in transferring her affections from Karbon to the ring champion as time hangs heavily on her hands at The Estate where she is recovering from the accident and Karbon finds it easy to remain in the doctor's home with Elizabeth as his nurse.

The climax is reached when Elizabeth and Karbon attend a cinema show and Elizabeth returns home to admit frankly to her husband that she intends to leave with Karbon. The reader leaves her however, playing a Brahms sonata with Herr Markus and a moment later dusting little particles of dust which fall when the car passed by. And so "life went on."

"Dark Dawn" Is Story of Romance, Revenge

"DARK DAWN" by J. Gibson Taylor Jr., is one of the new spring books published by the Mohawk Press.

Balmy Saint Domingue in the days of the French Revolution is the background of the novel, a charming love story overshadowed at its climax by the terror of a slave revolt. The book gives a vivid picture of the aristocratic little French colony as it was on the threshold of the decade which the heroic struggle of Toussaint L'Ouverture lifted from obscurity. In the story is heard the first rumblings of bitter civil war.

Into this land, seething with malcontent, comes Raymond de Charville, the terrors of the Revolution still vivid in his mind. The soft feminity and coquetry of Camille Benuchard, daughter of a neighboring plantationer, summon the admiration of the young aristocrat. It is quickly transformed into a deep love. Through their romance comes the primitive note of the tom-tom, mild at first but rising into a savage warning, heard from one end of the island to the other. Camille laughs, she is thrilled, nothing is serious to her, until Celina, her mulatto companion betrays her into vengeful black hands.

Celina, the slave girl whose long-concealed resentment transforms her into a high priestess of hatred, and Jean, the faithful quadroon overseer, are eloquent of the eternal tragedy of racial mixtures.

New Book Has English Setting

"THE Running Footman," a novel by John Owan has period quality in an English setting.

Though he is hurrying toward death, John Deere disregards his failing strength and holds to his service of running before his master's coach because he will not go away from the woman he loves.

She is socially above him and he accepts the distance between them and finds for her an idealism that is like her walled garden. In final allegiance, when his work has worn him down, he sets out upon a run of 150 miles to bring her the flowers from that garden which she wants for her wedding.

Mistaken Identity Is Plot for Story

A CASE of mistaken identity furnishes the plot of Edwin Bateman Mirrie' novel, "The Open Door." The story concerns a young architect, employed as a mere draftsman in a leading architectural firm of Metropolis. He bears a close facial resemblance to an elusive millionaire. An unconventional romance is carried on by the girl in the case who mistakes the unsuspecting young man for his wealthy prototype.

Publisher Visits Sigrid Undset

ALFRED A. KNOPF, publisher, has just returned from a two months' stay in Europe during which he visited many of the prominent authors whose works he publishes in this country. He also secured the American rights to a number of important new books including a novel by James Laver entitled "Nymph Errant." In Norway Mr. Knopf visited Sigrid Undset who lives in the little town of Lillehammer. Madame Undset is now at work on a new modern novel which will probably be a one-volume work and appear next year. Her fiftieth birthday will be on May 20 and all literary Norway is preparing to celebrate the occasion. In Oslo Mr. Knopf arranged to publish here a book of life among the Indians of northern Canada by Helge Ingstad a young lawyer who sold his practice and went to live in the Barren Grounds for four years as a trapper.

"Lap of Luxury" Has Pretty Heroine

SUPPOSING you were Sylvia Parker, the prettiest girl in the Polly Put tea rooms between London and Oxford, orphaned and very beautiful, what would you want most? Wealth, freedom, plenty of matches, perennially dry bath mats or Bert an eccentric but lovable young engine driver? And would you envy the luxury possessed by your rich cousins, May Dolores and Chummondeley? And supposing that everything else failed, wouldn't there always be Bert and the bungalow and you, passing rich on 300 pounds a year? The story is by Berta Ruck who calls it "The Lap of Luxury."

"Stuffed Parrot" Is Children's Story

"THE Stuffed Parrot" is a story for children by Parker Fillmore.

Polly thought that a bicycle was one of those things she really wanted but when an uncle just returned from South America presented her with a parrot she knew that all her life she had longed for a parrot. Paquita is a bird of unusual personal attraction and she is coveted by many but particularly by Crazy Mary whose queer little house is one of refuge for crippled birds of all species. The mysterious disappearance of Paquita and the part played by Poll, the stuffed parrot, in the disappearance, add a slight tinge of mystery to the plot, while Crazy Mary provides Polly and her small friends with an opportunity for the performance of a thoughtful and kindly act.

FORMER MARIONITE CLAIMED IN SOUTH

Word has been received by A. A. Austin of 418 Cherry street of the death of Benjamin F. Lawrence, 76, a former Marion county resident, at Melbourne, Fla., April 1. Mr. Lawrence was a brother-in-law of Mr. Austin and a cousin of W. R. Lawrence of the Lawrence Fruit farms and Dr. M. F. Douce of 132 Vine street.

Mr. Lawrence left Marion 27 years ago to make his home in Florida. He is survived by his widow and a son, Richard A. Lawrence. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence, both deceased, formerly residents of Claridon.

A. A. Lawrence and Mrs. Sarah Benner, both of Glendora, Calif., and Mrs. Mary Benner of Berea, O., are surviving brothers and sisters.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, April 17.

SUNDAY'S horoscope emphasizes the prospect of pleasant and lively social and personal relations, with something of a peculiar or mysterious denouement, which may cause much perplexity or maybe chagrin. Other affairs, particularly employment, are under a rather baneful reign of the stars, so be cautious.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year in which personal matters, especially those bearing on sentimental or romantic affiliations, may engage the attentions to the slight of other interests. In all matters precaution is enjoined, employment particularly being under a perilous astral influence. Make changes with discretion. A child born on this day may be sociable, friendly, romantic and sympathetic, with a leaning to the peculiar, novel, psychic or mysterious.

For Monday, April 18.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a rather uneventful and unimportant day, although there may be anxieties, irksome and unprofitable occurrences, which may have peculiar or sinister undercurrents difficult to combat. Be careful with money and sign papers cautiously.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to encounter a year of rather humdrum existence, except that there may be an undercurrent of peculiar, sinister or unfathomable occurrences which may perplex and annoy. Be careful with funds and safeguard against small losses, possibly through writings. A child born on this day may have some peculiar or intriguing characteristics, making it difficult to understand, and this may provoke petty annoyances and perplexities in its contacts.

Profit—3 Ways
Perhaps you never thought of a Marion savings fund in just this way, but it really pays 3 distinct kinds of dividends.
First, the regular interest dividend added to your account twice a year. Second, the dividends of financial security; the knowledge that you are safely and surely building a reserve fund. Third, the knowledge that every dollar saved here is invested in this community, helping to make business better and jobs surer for you and your neighbor.

Because it is an OHIO Company, Incorporated under the laws of OHIO—No Better Insurance laws in any state. Home Office at Columbus, Ohio from which, including local office, policy holders may receive any immediate service when desired.
The MIDLAND is and has been continuously represented in Western Ohio by CHAS. E. SCHAAD AND ASSOCIATES for more than 20 years, with branch headquarters in Marion.
The Midland, through this office, during the past 20 years of continuous service, has paid hundreds of thousand dollars to policy holders and beneficiaries in death and disability claims and matured endowments. It now has thousands of satisfied policy holders and millions of Insurance in force in this territory, and has loaned hundreds of thousands of dollars to its policy holders on policy contracts and real estate.
Through service and fair dealings, the Midland has earned the enviable reputation of "ITS PERFORMANCES EXCEED ITS PROMISES."
AGE—Established in 1905, the Midland Mutual is now older than 75% of all companies.
SIZE—The Midland has more assets and more ordinary insurance in force than 84% of all companies.
RATING—Rated "A" (Excellent) by Best and all other recognized authorities.
CONTRACTS—Every policy participates in earnings.
Full reserve, without surrender charge, available in cash or as loan beginning at end of 2nd year.
Change to higher premium forms after 5 years may be made by paying difference in reserves only, not difference in premiums with 6% compound interest as is usually charged.
SERVICE—Free health examinations.
All modern forms of policies to fit every life insurance need, including Family Income, Guaranteed Low Cost, Annuities, Juvenile, Investment Contracts, Accidental Death and Total-Permanent Disability Protection and Income Settlement provisions.
Writes policies from age 1 day to 65 years.
EARNINGS—The Midland's interest earnings average 5.6% which is substantially higher than most companies. This, combined with economical management, enables the Company to pay 5% on policy proceeds and 4½% on dividends left to accumulate.
MORTALITY—The Midland has always experienced an unusual low mortality. This factor and the Company's high interest earnings have been reflected in large dividends to policyholders and exceptionally low net cost.
DIVIDENDS—Dividends are paid at the end of the 1st year and during disability and on paid-up policy additions.
Since organization more money has been paid to living policyholders in dividends than the total paid to beneficiaries in death claims.
Only 9% of the companies in the U. S. paid as much dividends to policyholders in 1930 as did the Midland.
CLAIMS—Death claims are paid same day that completed proofs are received.
The Management can use another representative, either gentleman or lady in each of the following counties: Marion, Wyandot, Crawford, Delaware and Union.

Will Says It Looks Like Everything Getting Along Fine But the Humans

BY WILL ROGERS

I know is the what I the papers and what e haven't seen much no I think anybody he is near to Holly see quite a bit Lots e from far and wide s er but I think they er disappointed Hol real up and doing is a season

Depression has hit the dentmen just like it has hit everything else The pursuit of fame and liberty has been checked by this slow return to "Normalcy" So as I am I haven't seen much lately keeping mighty close to home minding the old Ponies out in the hills and looking Nature over and seeing how I was making out during this long spell of Republicanism It it looks like everything I dollar fine but humans Animals are having a great year grass was never higher flowers were never more in bloom trees are throwing out an abundance of shade for us to loaf under Everything the Lord has a hand in is going great but the minute you notice anything that is in any way under the supervision of man why it's cockeyed

Let Em Go

And the more men that have anything to do with trying to right a thing why the worse it get If every man was left absolutely to his own method of wrighting his own affairs why a big majority would get it done but he can't do that The Government has not only hundreds but literally thousands in Washington to see that no man can personally tend to his own business They go there to do it for him and a mob always gets panicky quicker than an individual They hear so much of how bad things are and that something should be done and they immediately feel that it up to them to do it so they just get up in the morning determined to pass some bills that day that will attempt to do something They don't know if they will or not but they were sent there to pass bill so they get to passing

That was one of the great things about Coolidge Coolidge never thought half the things that are wrong needing fixing You knew that over half the thing just needed leaving alone It's like writing a letter to everybody you hear from He knew that if you leave nine tenths of em alone it didn't need answering

Now here a couple of weeks ago Congress broke out and they just gloried in their devilment If one could point out anyone that looked like a rich man going down the street why they just passed a search and seizure bill and went out and not only plucked him but added a little tar and feathers when they turned him loose Well they got everybody sore at em and the big one said Well if they are going to confiscate what I may earn I just wont earn anything I take a chance investing in something when I will only be able to keep one fourth of it Let I win?

They Help Some

Well after Jack Garner got his strangle hold back on the boys again and after they had sobered up why he showed em that the Government was after all a sort of a co-operative affair and that it wouldent be a bad idea to sort of distribute the cost around in proportion Course everybody knows that one of our great ills today is the unequal distribution of wealth You are either at a banquet in this country or you are at a hot dog stand There was no doubt that the ones with money were about the only ones that could pay anything but after all these darn rich ones are the ones the rest of us got to live off of If the government takes all their money in taxes it dont leave any for the folks that work for em

Then to add to the confusion of everything Congress turned down the Sales Tax then turned right around and had the same tax come up under a different name and passed it Thats just like we do more things The League of Nations everybody agreed that we had no business in it but the first thing you know we were advising with em The World Court we wouldn't put on a cap and gown but we would sit on the bench with em We are always doing something though the kitchen door Well I guess that not the responsibilities

But we are blessing along in spite of our handicap The East and the North has got to get like the South has been for years poor and used to it It's folks down there have had to catch a cat fish or kill a possum before we ate for years So the other part of the Country have got to learn to look to nature and not to Wall Street for what goes in the pot They got to find some way making a living besides looking at a list of names in the paper every day Stocks and bonds have sent so now they dont go up and down on when there is a reason not like they used to go up and down when there was a wish on somebody sent But the whole Country is takin it in good grace at that If so many of em are not looking our pictures as used too we are mighty grateful to those that are If they are not looking at us its because they are busy and that's about the way it is with everything else

TWO CHURCHES TO HOLD DISTRICT MEETS HERE NEXT WEEK

PLAN PROGRAM FOR MEETING

Discussion Topics Outlined for Session at First Presbyterian Church

70 EXPECTED TO ATTEND

Marion Presbytery To Hold Annual Meeting Here Monday and Tuesday

Ministers and laymen of the Marion Presbytery will convene in the First Presbyterian church Monday and Tuesday for the annual spring meeting. Our Missions "Stewardship and Summer Schools will be the themes for discussion.

Rev Howard I Olewiler pastor of the First church is moderator of the presbytery. Approximately 70 ministers and laymen will attend.

Among the speakers on the program will be Dr Henry R O'Brien physician in McCormick hospital at Siam who will speak Monday night on the subject "Medical Missions in Siam" and D J T Marshman of Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware.

Commissioners to the general assembly at Denver Colorado and delegates to the synod at Wooster will be elected Tuesday afternoon.

To Elect Moderator

The elections of moderator and temporary clerk, appointment of committees and general business of the presbytery will be conducted Monday afternoon at the opening session. Rev Mr Olewiler will formally open the meeting with half hour devotions at 2 p m. The meeting will recess until 4 p m while committees prepare reports.

Rev Mr Olewiler will deliver his sermon at 4 p m. A report from the board of pensions will be given by Col E K Campbell of Marysville after which Mrs R W Wilson of Urbana will give a report of the presbyterial meeting held at Bellefontaine this week.

Rev James M Fisher assistant pastor of the First church and director of the Lee Street church will present the report of the Hills and overtures committee.

Four important questions to be considered by the presbytery will be presented in this report. The questions were brought up at the general assembly last May and will be acted upon by all presbyteries.

To Act on Question

The first question considers the revision of a chapter of the church book dealing with the licensing of candidates. The forming of missioners a new branch in the Presbyterian denomination will be acted upon together with questions dealing with the revision of the chapter on the election and ordination of pastors and the proposed amendment in the form of government in reference to vacant churches.

Rev Harry W Barr of Urbana will present the report on foreign missions.

The Monday night session opening at 7 30 will be given over to foreign missions Rev Mr Barr will act as chairman. Dr O Brien's address will conclude the program.

Rev Paul W Gauss of Bellefontaine will talk on national missions at the Tuesday session opening at 8 30 a m. W I Dodge of Delaware will give the treasurer's report. Dr W C Emery of Delaware will make his report of the settlement of pastors salaries. The necrology will be read by Rev James S Freeman of Forest.

Talks Scheduled

At 10 30 a m Christian education will be discussed by Rev J C McCoy of Marysville chairman of the committee on Christian education. Rev S V Sydenstricker of Upper Sandusky will talk on moral welfare and Rev J A Verburg of Columbus will talk on summer schools. Stewardship will be discussed by Dr Marshman.

The election of commissioners to the assembly and delegates to the synod will take place Tuesday at 1 30 p m. Rev Clarence S Geeting of Delaware will present the change of rules which will be followed by judicial and finance reports. Dr W N Mundy of Forest will give a treasurer's report after which Rev J A Miller of Huntsville will talk on the subject "The Reading Club and Dr Marshman will talk on Reading of Books." The presbytery will adjourn after a short business session.

STARTS TREE PLANTING

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—(U P)—Florida has launched a campaign to plant 325,000 trees in the state during the year of the 200th anniversary celebration of the birth of George Washington. About 240,000 trees have been registered already.

God Revealed in Christ

A SERMONETTE

BY REV W MARIETT GEORGE
Pastor of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church

For God who commanded the light to shine out of the darkness hath shined in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ—II Corinthians 4 6.

THIS text all will agree is great in capacity but the richness of the will to turn the knowledge of God to tired and weary hearts of humanity. His light brings to the world a new interpretation of life and a new estimate of the character of God.

We are not able to see the superlative glory of God in the material universe. But it is brought to its highest power in personality. There was more of God's glory beamed forth in the face of the baby of Bethlehem's manger sunlight of the grace of God in the life and the character of Jesus than could be revealed in all the stars of the universe. The secret of it is the unveiling of the pledge in this physical world of God that the most wild while living human persons is not material things. Persons who were made in his image. People are God's greatest concern.

We live in a machine age. Science has brought many wonderful discoveries. In fact we deal with the material so much that our great emphasis is upon things. The world majors in things and minors in persons. God majors in persons and minors in things.

If you want to know God then turn to the great Illuminous Christ. For in Him we see God. A God who is like Jesus is the God we want to become acquainted with. God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself.

In Jesus we see revealed the love of God for the entire human race. No particular race or color but the world is the object of God's love.

Again we see his forgiving love. On the cross He said "Father forgive them." Will the Father forgive sin? Read the story of the prodigal. Does God take our loved ones away to punish us? Read how Christ shed his tears in sympathy at the grave of Lazarus. We know that God cares for Jesus cared for the suffering. We know that God is good because Jesus was good. We know that God is patient because Jesus was patient.

Do you desire to know God? Then go to Jesus get acquainted with him. He has never failed. He will not fail you. He will give you the help and strength you need.

Mother United with Son Given Away by Father

By The Associated Press

ASHEVILLE N C April 16—The story of an 11 month old baby given away by his father because he got on his nerves was detailed in juvenile court here when Mrs Hilda Smith Davis of Washington D C was reunited with her son now 11 years old.

The boy had been in Buncombe county children's home under the name of Jack Lyon and Judge J Frazier Glenn signed an order turning him over to his mother who immediately identified him in a group of children when she saw him for the first time in 10 years.

The reunion came about when a friend of Mrs Helen Ferguson becoming angered old state welfare officials at Raleigh told the boy Mrs Davis was notified and came to North Carolina immediately.

It was brought out in court that the father Buton Smith had taken the baby from home and given it to Mrs Ferguson who in turn had placed the child in the home soon afterward. The Smiths were divorced and Mrs Smith remarried. Her husband came with her to reclaim her child.

ACTIVITY RENEWED IN FIGHT FOR DRY POLL

opposed vigorously the inclusion in either party platform of a plank recommending it. He objected to singling out the eighteenth amendment for its application, and favored making the direct vote by the people in each state take the place of the present provisions for constitutional conventions as an alternative to ratification by the legislatures. Byrd's proposal was for submitting an amendment to the legislatures, which upon ratification would provide that future changes in the constitution be submitted direct to the people by congress for a vote at a state when no other elections would be held, the vote to be counted by states and ratification being (as at present) by three fourths of the states.

Mr Cannon at the same time said responsibility will rest on President Hoover for whatever prohibition action is taken by the Republican convention. He expressed these views in an address before the state anti-saloon league convention and expanded them to discuss the possibility of both parties adopting planks for resubmission or repeal.

He hinted at a third party movement in that event.

The declaration of the Wyoming senators was brief.

"We are for resubmission of the prohibition question to the people of the several states. We are unalterably opposed to a return to the saloon with its attendant evils. We would consider favorably a plan of federal control and regulation of the liquor traffic under which the rights of dry states would be fully protected."

RAILWAYS REQUEST ACTION ON MERGER

Advocates of Eastern 4 System Consolidation File Plans with Commission

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON April 16—Attorneys for the [illegible] eastern four system railroad consolidation plan today urged the interstate commerce commission to act promptly in the matter of the consolidation.

In a 263 page brief reviewing in detail the plan broached by the Chesapeake & Ohio Baltimore & Ohio Pennsylvania and New York Central systems for creating four great railroad systems in the East attorneys for three of the applicants pointed to failure or recapture provisions of the 1920 transportation act as one of the reasons for speed. The New York Central was not among the signers of the brief.

It is felt the document set forth that the time has arrived when this matter should be promptly settled if possible. We are facing difficult conditions which can not be met by hesitation or solved by way of uncertainty and confusion * * * Other proposals may be easily set up—on paper. But this is the only proposal yet made which has the essential and persuasive merit of reasonably assured fulfillment.

Daily Proverb—Earth produces nothing worse than an ungrateful man.—Arsonius

Unemployment in Germany fell off 98,000 the latter half of March. But then, it may have been that a lot of the unemployed were out "hilleting" and didn't get counted.

And now Italy calls on the world to junk big engines of war, whether on land or sea or in the air. There's an awful lot of calling like that, these days, but the caller always wants the other fellows to start the junking.

William G. McAdoo is urging Democracy to shun Tammany and pick some other candidate than either Roosevelt or Smith. Maybe he may succeed in converting his party to his view, but that New York City vote certainly looks mighty big to Democracy.

Representative William R. Wood, of Indiana, makes the charge that Chairman Jouett Shouse, of the Democratic national executive committee, has been slandering President Hoover. Jouett's weakness for going off at half cock in political utterances is so generally recognized, that it's possible that he couldn't really slander anybody.

The United States supreme court has rendered a decision that arrests may be made under warrants therefor, but that a search of the premises in which arrests are made can not be legally made without search warrants. What isn't going to make prohibition enforcement any easier.

It's hard to see how the ability to make diamonds weighing a twentieth of a carat is going to profit the discoverer. In these times the hotel clerks have theirs in pawn and the gangsters and rum-runners wouldn't be caught dead wearing stones weighing less than five carats.

Lee DeForest, telephone inventor, is quoted as charging that the American radio has been converted into a "cheap, vulgar show" and a "bothersome salesman." It's a hundred-to-one shot that Lee has been listening in on the "Faure cure" stuff and the revamped alleged wit of decades long past.

For the fourth consecutive year, the board of auditors of the Illinois township in which the villages of Des Plaines, Park Ridge and River View are located, has voted not to levy a tax for the reason that there were sufficient funds at hand to run the township for the succeeding twelve months, and the school board has reduced its levy twenty per cent. That board should be captured and held until it divulges how the thing is done.

Sacred Cows.

When the economic recession has done its damage and the hurt places have begun to heal, there will be a good many situations that will call for the comment, "Here's another place where we lost our heads and acted foolishly."

There is governmental economy, for instance. Every one either is talking or crying about it. There isn't much question but that a great many mistakes are bound to be made one way and another in the name of economy before salaries start climbing again. Government costs too much; its stockholders are working themselves into a rage preparatory to slashing expenses.

During the last two years they have been forced to take their belts in, not once, but many times. Against their will, they have had to adjust themselves to salary cuts so extensive as to change their entire standard of living, in many cases. The hard times have been no respecter of persons, outside government. Its victims, consequently, are determined that public employes shall be forced to make readjustments commensurate with those their employers, the taxpayers who do not work for the government, have made.

Up to this time, progress has been slow. The inevitable day has been postponed as long as possible. However, it has arrived amid wailing and cries for mercy in most divisions of local government. Federal government, however, continues to think itself as a sort of sacred cow in the political pen. Economy is a great and good thing, but shouldn't be allowed to sting the sensitive flanks of the departments and bureaus. And wage cutting—there's another good thing, but it shouldn't be allowed to get a start in the federal government.

This has irritated the public considerably. It is pleasant to record, therefore, that in the new tone of Washington dispatches, in recent pronouncements by prominent men in private and public life and in legislative developments in congress there are unmistakable signs that the sacred cow of federal government is going to lose some fat.

Conservatives and Liberals.

People with a capacity for being curious about such matters are found arguing with increasing frequency and augmented fervor over the question as to which way the political trend is heading. Is it conservatism or liberalism that Americans want?

The unadorned truth is that the curious spectators know no more about it than those who, in the main, are only dimly aware of the qualifications by which candidates are sorted and tagged "liberal," or "conservative." Nevertheless, though unable to give the answer in advance on a basis of theory, the people who decide the political fates of candidates at the polls give it on a concrete basis in their ballots.

In determining their votes on questions of broad policy, such as are present in a national election, they inevitably become instruments for the working out of certain immutable laws of political balance. They may think of themselves, not as conservatives or liberals, but as Republicans and Democrats; likewise, their candidates. But their votes may represent, and often do, the division between those opposed to change and those favoring change which is the basic balancing power of representative government.

Possession and easy consent to possession make conservatism. Ambition and resentment against possession make liberalism. Thus, while the Republican party is identified more closely with conservatism due to its established position in control of the government, it would claim a liberal attitude if it were to be displaced by the Democratic party, which, in turn would acquire a complexion of conservatism.

Seeking the answer as to which way the political trend is moving in these speculative days before the national convention, one encounters, without searching, a considerable sentiment in favor of change—the basis of a liberal attitude. People shaken by the economic recession are susceptible to the glittering promises of untried remedies.

Voting in the forthcoming presidential election may reflect this popular attitude in the turning out of the incumbent, but in considering that possibility, the weakness of a liberal appeal to the American electorate at this time is revealed. It doesn't stand up well under examination.

There are as many and more so-called Republicans who are liberals as there are Democrats. The true liberals, in short, the men who always will be ambitious and anxious to try the new and overthrow the old regardless of their own position are a small majority tugging along with both parties. The true conservatives, likewise, are to be found in both parties. Neither party, consequently, can make a direct appeal to the potential liberal support that exists in the electorate.

Consequently, there is a great uncertainty. The liberal mass is leaderless. Like so many iron filings agitated in a neutral field its members lack the significant arrangement which the magnetism of a strong leader could cause. Until such a leader appears, therefore, desertions from the liberal camp to the conservative camp may be general. If uncertainty is less to be desired than certainty, Americans will turn in the coming elections in the direction of certainty. Issues and men remaining as they are now, the trend this year will be toward conservatism, due largely to the fact that liberalism has neither a man nor a program with which to attract votes.

The Deficit Increases.

There is talk of economy, there are promises of inflation, forebodings of disaster and square acres of paper covered with estimates of revenue and expenditure. The budget must be balanced in 1933, say the level heads in Washington, and the cost of government must be reduced. The fiscal pot may hold a dangerous brew, but no one can complain that it isn't getting plenty of attention.

While all this goes on in the foreground, the national deficit continues to increase somewhere in the background. It has nothing to do with a balanced budget in 1933. It will not be affected by any economy program that might be put through congress. It is a record of what has happened, a warning of what will happen unless the books are made to balance.

The incomes that are supposed to bear the weight of new taxation dried up and blew away when it was time to make tax returns on them. The postoffice is going into debt faster than usual. Revenue from every source is dwindling. On the other hand, however, more money than usual has been and is being spent. Last year expenditures amounted to $1,718,772,386 on April 11. This year they amounted to $2,033,788,340.

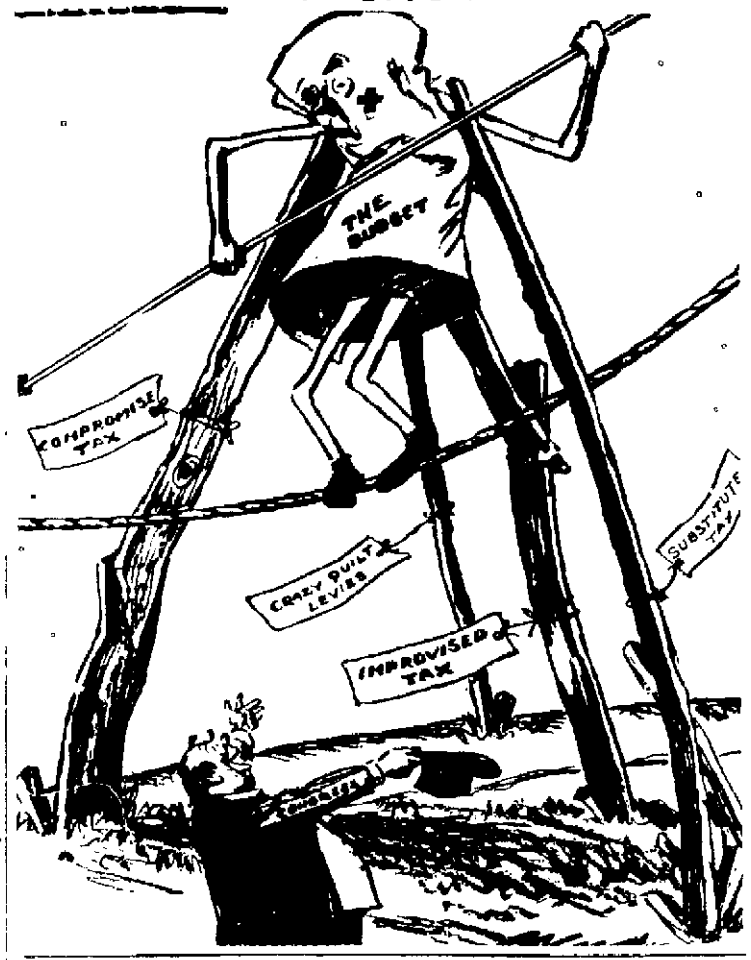
Talk won't balance the budget in 1933. It didn't balance it this year, nor the year before. Americans have sent authorized representatives to Washington to take care of the business of government. Balancing the budget is part of that business. No further instructions from home are needed.

If the newspapers continue to exploit pipe smoking by women as a New York society fad, it will not be long till notoriety-seeking girls will be emulating great-grandmothers who, as a rule, were unknown to society.

In response to many protests by citizens of Evansville, Illinois, twenty-eight bronze statues, reproduction of works in the nude by Rodin, have been removed from the lobby of a hotel there, where they were left to awaken interest in a coming lecture by a Northwestern university professor. The educator in question might have obviated criticism by following the plan adopted by the college authorities up at Ada, some years ago, who put pants on a statue of Diana.

To show how simply it worked, a parachute safety demonstrator out in Los Angeles pulled the ripcord of his chute without first cutting off the propeller of his grounded machine. When he was picked up after having been dragged out of his machine by the force of the blast from the propeller against the opened parachute, he was found to be suffering from head injuries and a possible fracture of his left shoulderblade. Parachutes are by and large safety in the air, but danger lurks in them on earth.

BALANCE AT LAST.



Editorial Opinion.

MR. SMITH INVITES MR. HAYS.

And now the American Civil Liberties group announces a trip to Bell county, "armed with a federal injunction, if necessary, to prohibit interference." Its "sole interest" to test "civil liberty, free speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of entrance and egress between states, and its boasted purpose "to establish some precedent, so that people who are manhandled will know what to do about it," are to be kept in mind from April 24 onward, when the party is scheduled to arrive.

Arthur Garfield Hays, who heads the group, nonchalantly has waved aside as impertinent twelve questions, printed in full in the Enquirer. These queries were asked by Bell's county attorney, Walter B. Smith, who learned his law at the University of Cincinnati. Mr. Smith invites Mr. Hays to answer—or else!

Patronizingly, Mr. Hays remarks: "All I have to say to Smith is that we are coming." But he does say that he is going to ask him "if his views on religion and marriage constitute a test of a man's constitutional right to enter Kentucky."

Since Mr. Hays and Mr. Smith will presumably go into this matter not only on the front pages, but perhaps in the inferior and higher courts, we may bide our time. However most of the questions propounded to Mr. Hays seem pertinent. Compared to the tents of Communism as set forth by friend and foe, they determine Mr. Hays's attitude toward it. If he wishes to make a speech in Bell county for the destruction of present government, the family, the abolition of religion, he will have the chance to test Mr. Smith's powers to demand peace bond, to arrest him, lodge him in the jail, try him under the laws of Kentucky dealings with criminal syndicalism—and Mr. Smith by this time has had considerable acquaintance with the subject.

What a pity it is that with southeastern Kentucky desiring thousands of Americans to accept its invitation to the Laurel and Rhododendron festival, when, in June, all the mountains are a blaze of ineffable beauty, to which Washington's cherry blossoms are but a flash in the pan that so many people wish to see it from jail!

Kentucky invitations for hospitality or to combat are to be taken seriously, Mr. Hays.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WILL IT COME TO THIS?

There was a time, under English law, when a desperate criminal, if he could not easily be apprehended and dealt with under the regular forms of criminal procedure, might be officially proclaimed as an outlaw. The man so proclaimed lost all his civil rights, and it was a criminal offense for any one to give him aid or shelter. If he did not then give himself up to the duly constituted authorities, any citizen might bring him to justice, and in case he should attempt to flee or resist when called upon to surrender, any one might slay him and be free from any charge of crime in so doing.

This method of criminal procedure has never been formally abolished in England, but has become obsolete in practice, because the need for such drastic action has gradually passed away. The ordinary processes of law have become sufficient for the protection of society against crime.

The outrageous conduct of bandits, kidnapers, etc., in this country, however, has led Justin Miller, dean of the law school of Duke university and chairman of the section on criminal law and criminology of the American Bar association, to have an article prepared by his assistant on the possible benefits which might accrue from a revival of this old English method of procedure. This article appears in the current number of the Panel, published under the auspices of the Association of Grand Jurors of New York county, and one may wish that it might have a wide reading among criminals themselves. They might be convinced that they are going too far in their presumption of superiority to the laws and courts and that society still has other weapons up its sleeve, so to speak, if regular methods of law enforcement prove unworkable.

The American people would have to be driven to desperation, of course, before resorting to a revival of such a summary method, but such cases as the Lindbergh kidnapping, and the career of Capone and his associates and tools, justify a careful consideration of means of protection which have proved effective in generations past and might conceivably be used again.—Columbus Dispatch.

Look Out for Scarlet Fever.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Scarlet fever is prevalent in some of our large cities. On this account it is important for parents to acquaint themselves with the prevention and symptoms of the disease.

Scarlet fever, or scarlatina, is an acute contagious and infectious disease. While no age is exempt from the infection, about ninety per cent of the cases occur in children from one to fifteen years of age. The disease quickly develops after exposure to the fever. The incubation period may be as short as one day, or it may take about a week.

In children fever, nausea, vomiting headache and general uneasiness, with severe sore throat, are the first symptoms noted. Occasionally a convulsion may usher in the attack.

The eruption appears from twelve to thirty-six hours after the initial symptoms. It is usually first seen in the neck and upper part of the chest, in the form of a uniform red flush. When viewed closely it discloses minute spots of a darker hue.

This eruption gradually fades, beginning on the third or fourth day, and by the end of the week has almost disappeared. Then follows a period of desquamation, or peeling, which may continue for from four to six weeks. During this time it is very important to guard against chilling. Otherwise some of the numerous complications that render scarlet fever so dangerous and fatal may develop and create a critical situation.

The throat inflammation may spread to the ears, often involving the mastoid, or to the nasal sinuses. The glands of the neck may become involved. A very frequent complication is an attack of acute Bright's disease. To avoid these untoward results the diet of the patient should be bland, consisting largely of milk, with the exclusion of meat and meat soups.

The disease is communicated from the sick to the well through the secretions of the mouth, nose and discharging ears, as well as by direct contact with the patient. It is barely possible that scales from the peeling skin are dangerous and health departments quarantine the patient until desquamation is completed and all discharges have been arrested.

Prevention of the spread of scarlet fever depends largely upon the careful inspection of school children, excluding all those who show suspicious symptoms. Various tests and protective inoculations have been used, but their action is not always devoid of unpleasant reactions. The "Dick test" has been used to determine the susceptibility of children to the disease. In asylums and institutions, where there is danger of an epidemic, these precautions have met with considerable success.

Mild cases of scarlet fever may pass unnoticed and prove the source of an epidemic of considerable extent. Hence it is important that no symptom indicating the possible presence of the disease be overlooked.

German Money Trailed.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

Berlin, April 16—The German treasury department has hired scores of detectives to trace the gold mark all over Europe. The financial espionage system is devised to trap thrifty citizens who smuggled money out of the country, a practice which is considered at least partly responsible for the steady loss of gold by the Reichsbank despite the enormous favorable trade balance of last year.

The detectives are instructed to ferret out wealthy Germans and seem to be spending money freely. They walk into the night clubs of Paris. Several are stationed in the casinos of Monte Carlo and other Riviera resorts. They report to see what hotels Germans stay abroad.

German law allows Germans to take only $50 out of the country without special permission. If a person is caught living extravagantly, the finance ministry can easily check whether necessary permission was obtained to take out more money.

The finance ministry also scrutinizes the advertisements of such free and independent states as Liechtenstein and Luxemburg, which, because of their low tax rates, have become havens of refuge for persons who smuggled capital out of Germany. The finance sharks know that Germans do not live in these little states for pleasure.

According to an emergency decree persons guilty of unauthorized "capital flight" may be punished by confiscation of twenty-five per cent of their property remaining in Germany and arrest as soon as they return to their fatherland.

Another $300,000 recently rained out of the sky into the outstretched arms of customs officials near Waldshut on the German-Swiss border. Guards spied a German sport plane with license number erased flying towards Switzerland. From a watch-tower they noticed an automobile waiting about three miles on the Swiss side. Suddenly a parachute with a package attached was dropped from the plane which then turned sharply around and raced back towards Germany.

Swiss guards were asked to seize the automobile. German guards meanwhile fired on the plane with machine guns, but missed. To their astonishment, however, an unfavorable wind blew the parachute into German territory. The automobile on the Swiss side then sped away. The package attached to the parachute was found to contain 1,250,000 Marks, which some smuggler wanted to get out of the country by airplane.

The installation of automatic telephones in Berlin, which has changed all telephone numbers, enabled a clever inspector in the finance ministry to save the government $10,000,000 in gold. According to law, banks and business firms are allowed to repay foreign obligations outside of the international "standstill" agreement if they can prove that the obligations were incurred after July 30, 1931.

A Berlin private bank in asking for authorization to obtain foreign currency for payment to a Swiss bank sent a letter to the finance ministry proving that the debt was contracted after that date. It was part of the Berlin bank's correspondence with the Swiss creditor. The inspector, however, discovered that the telephone number of the Berlin bank was not that indicated on the letterhead at the time the letter was dated, and thus proved the letter to be forged.

Jedediah Tingle.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

At the height of its prosperity about 1850, the Shaker settlement near Lebanon, Ohio, included in its membership an undistinguished man by the name of Jedediah Tingle. His name does not appear on the list of officers of the organization under the reign of any of the several "kings" who presided over the affairs of the community. In a peculiar way, the mystery of the matter having been only recently cleared away, the name of Jedediah Tingle was for a long time and in a very influential way connected with extensive contributions to welfare work of various kinds in New York City.

Through the twenty-five or more years during which contributions were made to uplift movements of all kinds, and to the assistance of worthy young people desirous of obtaining higher education and lacking the means necessary, it is estimated that more than two and a half millions of dollars have been given under this name.

With the death a few years ago of William E. Harmon, a citizen of New York, it has come to the public that he was the person who made all these contributions. He located in New York while still young, and made a large fortune in dealing in New York real estate. He chose to make his gifts in a covert way for reasons that seemed good to him, and used the name of Jedediah Tingle, because Tingle was an ancestor of his and he admired him.

Tingle could not have been a Shaker through all his adult life, for celibacy is a tenet of the Shaker faith, and if he had observed it, he could have left no line of descent. Tingle must have given, in his character, good reason to this descendant for regarding him as a man worthy to be honored by having so many good gifts made in his name. Thousands of young men and women who were helped to help themselves by William E. Harmon's generosity will have reason also to think kindly of his simple, but sincere, ancestor who was an obscure member of this religious community of Ohio now passed wholly into history.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, April 16—Here I am again—one of those teas—stuck off in a dark corner always. The way people glance at me—with a high-nosed sniff and pass on, you'd think they just borrowed me for the afternoon from a museum. "Ouba, the Goat Faced Man of the Himalayas or such.

Everybody seems to be here except Ignace Herman. And, of course Mrs. Oakleigh-Oakleigh or whatever the name is is a no-show place. The high-handshaker with the [illegible]. Perhaps she'd like to play a little [illegible]. She seems a bit stiff. That limbers me.

Gene Buck looking for some one. Says he: "Here I am over in the Black Hole of Calcutta. Surely you recall me. Ziegfeld used to introduce me at 6 a. m., too. No, he's passed on." Well, I can go on fingering the fringe of the curtain. If worst comes to worst, I can faint.

This is my metier. Start out to have a lot of fun and wind up plaiting fringe. Have a tete-a-tete with Corey Ford is just like a visit to Denver. Lovely climate, she opines. So scrumptious. Well, I've been to Denver, but I don't know any one around the Brown Palace.

Maybe I haven't been exactly to Denver, but I have a cousin who visited Cripple Creek. The family is traveled and worldly, that way back. Sometimes we go along without hearing from one of them for years and then all of a sudden we get a post card from Syracuse.

The old dodo on the divan with Lionel Hampton has been glancing my way. He'd like to come over, but I don't believe he can make it without help. I'll dither him for a nickel a cornet. Sleepy grandpa! Has no one the slightest idea what I am talking about?

They are passing dabs of caviar. Peter Sullivan couldn't get along with just one cat. He takes six. That bird probably considers caviar runs into important money. Can you beat that? The waiter starts to serve me and turns back. Ever see such crazies?

Perhaps I'll soon get some ice-cream. You know they have it. I saw them rolling in the freezer. I always arrive at parties where there is ice-cream and hired butlers. The count with the striped pants and cutaway coat tells me he is building a little place in Surrey just through before the Riviera season opens. He adores the British countryside. Most Hun has the dope. They all go nuts about foreign things after they learn to speak it.

Heigh ho! Still nobody seems to know I'm here. I'll bet they could see me on a sunny day. I've had people sight me up as far as Seventy-Second street. One day a fellow recognized me all the way from Yonkers. The Wall Street broker wonders what the world is coming to. Ushers will now pass among you with slips for answers. Can't that block headed waiter hand me just one of those chunks of sausage on toothpicks! If Mrs. Oakleigh-Oakleigh would look the other way, I might snatch her cheese sandwich. She is telling them she lives at the Ritz while they are decorating her country place. She's not so much. I lived at the Ritz, too. For twelve years. I started that now overworked wheeze about being a son of the—, well sir, I could keep her in stitches like that the rest of the evening.

This is not bad. One of the flappers' bumps into me in the dark. She didn't know there was any one here. My, my, isn't this priceless! A tea party with a dash of romance. Maybe she'll take me out of this dungeon to participate in a little fresh air. She's not only heard of me, but is one of my greatest admirers. We have something in common. She thinks I'm a finished writer. But there's something nasty in the way she accents "finished." She's changed anyway. I'll be indifferent. Level weather, Madame! Are you going to Newport this season? She doesn't hear. She says George Jessel. All right, if she prefers the stage to literature, let her. Let her! We couldn't prevent her with six gunboats and the national guard.

Maybe if I slipped a message in a bottle, I might eventually get a bite to eat. Still I should be exercised about eating. Join the gluttons? Not I. While they gorge, I keep my figure. How little they know the peace and happiness that comes into the cloistered life of a hermit. They may have their frivolous and worldly baubles. I'll take my dark corner and the curtain fringe.—Copyright, 1932 McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, April 16—That white-haired, robust veteran of congressional wars—Henry Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic leader of the house—has been studying the question of taxes for the past quarter of a century. He probably knows more about the subject than any other man in congress. In fact, he says himself that he knows all about the subject.

The science of levying taxes, he says, is simple. To an harassed house trying to raise enough money to balance the budget, Rainey advised:

"The science of levying and collecting taxes, gentlemen, is merely the science of getting the most feathers with the least squawking of the goose. That is all there is to it."

Rainey at the time had taken the floor to talk straight from the shoulder to his colleagues about the tax bill—more particularly the sales tax.

No one perhaps feels more strongly about the sales tax than does Rainey. During the almost twenty-eight years he has been in congress he has repeatedly raised his voice in opposition to any such method of taxation.

But the necessity, he felt in balancing the budget, has caused him to have a change of heart.

Talking in moderate, almost soft tones for more than an hour and a half, Rainey put the proposition up to the house. He told them in unmistakable language just what had to be done.

"We have got to talk plainly," he said, "if we do not balance the budget or come as near doing it as we can, we are going to have [illegible] in the United States in the immediate future, and it may occur this summer, the biggest panic any nation ever had in all the history of the world."

They listened to him. Despite the fact that he talked for more than an hour, there were few interruptions.

So impressed was the house that when he concluded, to a man they arose to their feet and cheered him.

Few can compete with him in situations like this.

Guest speakers included Miss Fleck, a returned missionary from India; Miss Iona Dunn, dean of the Asheville, normal school at Asheville, N. C., and Mrs. Charles Mohr of Youngstown, synodical president.

Representatives from the First Presbyterian church in attendance at the meeting were Mrs. Surface, Mrs. I. H. Cowan, Miss Anna Dennig, Mrs. James G. Cooper, Mrs. Mary Lentz and Mrs. O. V. Robb. Mrs. Cooper is a member of the nominating committee and Mrs. Robb is overseas secretary for the Presbytery.

Just Things

Kindness

NEXT week if we view the calendar correctly is Be Kind to Animals Week. This makes us wonder for concentrate as we will we can not recall oh, in ages having seen any one mistreating an animal. There was a day back in the dark ages before the horseless carriage era when folks would have rallied to this cause with gusto. There are those who recall seeing patient and long suffering nags stand at the village hitch rack all day and half the night without a bite to eat or a drop to drink while their owners slaked their thirst in a place now as extinct as the much quoted dodo bird or swapped tall stories around a red hot stove in the village store. Then there were the bad boys who tied cans to the tails of precious canines and others who found delight in tying two cats together by the tails and letting them fight until death did them part. But all that was long ago and it's almost a safe bet if any one tried it now there would be plenty of effective protesting even if it were not Be Kind to Animals Week. Anyway it wouldn't hurt to remember them with a little extra kindness just for good measure.

2 Different Methods of Shopping

WHICH DO YOU USE?

There are two methods of shopping. But which method you use makes a great deal of difference, since you always want satisfaction from the things you buy.

Some people shop in such a trustful fashion. They merely ask for a can of peaches, a tube of tooth paste or a box of aspirin. Because they never specify what brands they want, they are always at the mercy of the clerk. No wonder people who buy this way are often so dissatisfied!

Other shoppers who know by experience or the reputations of certain products which brands are dependable—ask for these brands specifically by name. And they insist on getting the products they ask for, even though some clerk may urge them to try something "just as good."

Isn't it better to buy this way? Isn't it wiser to ask for what you want, what you know is always good—refusing other products of which you know nothing?

Stores which try to sell you unknown products in place of those you ask for usually do so for a selfish purpose. The dealer often reaps an extra profit, or the clerk a commission by switching you to the unknown merchandise!

Many of the best stores everywhere forbid this practise. When you buy from them you are always sure of getting exactly what you ask for—with full value in the merchandise you want for every penny you spend.

But if you are offered something "just as good" as the thing you ask for, refuse it! Demand packaged products which you know by experience, by brand, or by the reputations of their makers. You will often see such products advertised in this newspaper.

Ask for what you want! Insist on getting it! Millions of women have found this simple rule the surest guide to shopping satisfaction.

What luck it had been to Josie eager to earn money to the limited finances of her household

"You know this is our first anniversary," she asked. "We balanced our year book right and were ahead."

Then she saw a limousine up at the curb.

The business of the day had begun. Kitty left the customer to Josie and retired to the examining gold cubicle that was the office. There was mail to open, orders to fill, orders to check over, sales to enter. A typewriter swung at one side of her flat desk. On the other side were files. Across the room was another desk, another typewriter. Carol Sorenson was her partner in the Treasure Island shop where were sold dresses, blouses, negligees, costume jewelry.

But mail did not open the top letter of the pile Josie had put on her desk. She looked at it musingly, thinking. A whole year.

I had not been altogether easy, the job David had given her of making his father and Carol and Paul happy. Each had had to learn to adapt himself to the quiet and remoteness of the little house.

When September came Dalton Frew had decided he'd like to stay on until cold weather. One day he had driven into the city to attend to some important affairs. He had kissed Kitty on his return.

It seems like coming home, he said.

But Carol had been restless, bored. Is not going in as an where she had fretted to Paul in Kitty's hearing.

That afternoon Kitty had coaxed her to her hilltop.

Paul's going to have a na... dramatic work on the Time...

Oh—that. It's something of course. He's tickled about it. And if he plays go on they'll have him direct, I suppose. But I won't be enough to live on—the way we want to live.

Kitty's face had sobered. Carol's tone was like Gar's.

I've got some stuff to be rid of, anyway, Carol went on.

And then the plan had sprung to Kitty's fancy.

Carol, why don't you open a shop somewhere? No roadways not have to put your stock high under people's noses.

I've thought of that, but how can I without any money?

There was the money which Dalton Frew had put into the bank in Kitty's name.

Carol we might go into partnership. Only I'd want to sell something besides Russian doo-dads.

Oh well I'm fed up on the Russian line myself.

The dresses would go. There's always a sale for those. And the jewelry as a sort of side-line. An little odd things—

And they had talked and talked with Dalton and David and Paul Somerset and Dorcas Taber and in October the Treasure Island shop had opened on Elm avenue just where its windows would catch the eye of every woman motoring to the business part of the city and within walking distance of the wealthiest homes.

They had adjusted themselves to their responsibilities. Carol was the better buyer. Kitty admitted it and went her to New York to order more stock. Kitty was the better salesman. I suppose I've inherited it from my father and my grandfather.

She was living with Dalton Frew in a quiet roomy apartment. He had asked her to live with him with such simple pleading that she had no thought to refuse.

Letters came infrequently from Mrs Frew sometimes from Miss Bixby. No one of them hinted at coming back to Winton. Miss Bixby had written. Sometimes I think she isn't just right in her mind. She'll sit for hours and not say a word or as much as stir. She's like some one lost, poor dear.

Her poison had come back to herself. Kitty had thought reading it.

Dalton Frew had not let her take any of the housework on herself.

My dear you do not need to. And one day she had found old Pound waiting for her when she came back from the shop.

Oh it had been a good year, counted in what of purpose it had given her. Her days had been full, her evenings spent in amusing Dalton Frew.

And yet she sighed, now thinking back on them.

David now spent the greater part of his time in New York. Little Lady had been an amazing success. David was established as a writer.

Weeks had passed when she had not seen him. When he had come back for brief stays she had fancied that he was different. But that was to be expected. She'd argued with herself. Success, new friends, new inspiration for work must change him.

The old David was gone, she'd told herself, rejoicing for him, yet feeling a little longing for the David she had known.

Mean Gratification When She Sees Philip Veritzen Shocked at Avis Arlen's Dancing

Ronald Seeks Avis

AT MY comment upon Avis Arlen's thorough enjoyment of the dance Philip Veritzen smiling ly looked over at the girl dancing with his son. His glance was casual at first then as I had hoped he looked at her more intently. An instantly smothered exclamation broke from his lips and I saw his fingers close angrily upon the table. The next instant he had brought his annoyance under control and was answering my question with suspicious warmth.

Yes the dear child. It is so good of you to give her this good time.

She will be very popular I am sure. I said demurely, but my partisanship for Mary permitted me to enjoy unreservedly the first disapproval I had seen Philip Veritzen evince toward his dear friend's daughter whom I knew he wished to make Noel's wife in spite of the boy's present betrothal to Mary.

For Avis was comporting herself in a manner different than that of any other girl on the dance floor. I had remarked and disapproved her style of dancing at the time of her first visit at our home but I think Philip Veritzen had been too busily engaged in conversation at that time to pay much attention to what she was doing.

Now no one could ignore her actions. She patently was putting on a performance deliberately calculated to attract the eyes and the interest of every man in the room. I have watched jealously much questionable dancing but I have never seen anything quite so wanton—that is the only word I can use—as her sinuous slinky movements, her close embrace of Noel and her glances from half-closed eyes at everyone of the younger men she passed.

She had achieved one objective at least. She was that old standby of the Victorian authors, the exposure of all eyes. There was no open disapproval in the faces of the older women but there was that in their eyes which told me their real opinion of her. That the other girls were furious and envious I knew for their escorts all were sending furtive glances in her direction which whether admiring or not betrayed speculative interest.

Mrs Arlen Is Oblivious

Mrs Arlen was dancing with Dicky and so thoroughly engrossed in her own pleasure for Dicky is a marvelous dancer that she apparently did not see her daughter. I was sure however that, it would have made no difference to Mrs Arlen if she had seen the actions of Avis. She is so bound up in the girl, so blind to her faults, and has indulged her so foolishly that I was sure she did not look at her with the same criticism she would have given any other young woman staging the same atrocious performance.

But I could not wait for Mrs Arlen's reaction, or for the opinion of the girl held by any one in the room, save Philip Veritzen. I found a namesake in my own soul that shrieked out, for I knew that if I lay within my power to change Avis Arlen's actions with a word, I would not speak that word. The memory of the harsh christian against Mary that this same had uttered saddened my heart. I wanted only to get to the side of the girl with whom he had elected to supplant Mary in Noel's affection.

Ronald Seeks Avis

I had seen Avis's type before and I shrewdly guessed that she was not much concerned with Noel for this evening. She was out to make a conquest to establish herself as the undisputed belle of the ball and as her eyes furtively searched the faces of the masculine dancers I knew that she was appraising them deciding which one was the most attractive.

That her eyes lingered longest on Ronald did not surprise me. He was decidedly the handsomest young man in the room and besides he was dancing with Mary with every appearance of infatuated devotion to her. I knew that Avis bitter at the memory of what Mary had said to her upon her first visit to our house would welcome any opportunity of retaliation.

She had been escorted to the floor by Mary's betrothed husband although I was sure that Noel had given her no fresh reason to think that his was anything but the performance of an outlined duty. Nothing would feed the malice of Avis better than to take Ronald away from Mary who in pursuance of our scheme to save Marion from Charles Owen appeared to be hanging upon every word Ronald uttered.

Now no one could ignore her actions. She patently was putting on a performance deliberately calculated to attract the eyes and the interest of every man in the room. I have watched jealously much questionable dancing but I have never seen anything quite so wanton—that is the only word I can use—as her sinuous slinky movements, her close embrace of Noel and her glances from half-closed eyes at everyone of the younger men she passed.

But Avis Arlen's actions and their effect upon Mary and Noel were of no concern to me compared with my anxiety over the outcome of the whole matter in which Marion Charles Owen Mary and Ronald were the chief actors. As Ronald and Mary went past us in the dance she flashed a merry smile at us over Ronald's shoulder. But there was also a significant signaling look in her eyes that made me suddenly wa chful. That something new was afoot I guessed. I was sure of it as I saw them dancing down the room and observed Mary apparently urging something upon Ronald in which he appeared reluctant to acquiesce.

The music shivered to a crashing finish and the dancers returned to their tables while from the kitchen the waiters appeared with the second course of the dinner a jellied consomme. The orchestra gave just enough time for it to be finished before tuning up again and I watching Ronald and Mary saw him suddenly fling out his hand in a sort of impatient surrender to what she was asking then rise and cross to Avis, bending over her with an invitation to dance.

IDEAL "BURGLAR"

Chicago Crook Waits To Be Arrested—But He's Only Pasteboard

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 16.—The Chicago police have lost the ideal burglar—one that just stands and waits for them to come and make an arrest—but the trouble is he is made out of pasteboard.

And furthermore he looks just like Walter Hagen that fellow who wins so many golf matches.

Fred Hayward gave the police their tip. He said he saw the burglar in a flat. Two squads hurried to the scene.

Come out, yelled the policeman after they had surrounded the place yesterday. Nobody responded. Smash went the door. Behind a post in the store stood the pasteboard gentleman, frightened by Hayward as the crook all dressed up like a golfer with no place to go.
